NOTE TO COACHES: It is not always necessary to bush a thousand miles away from home. Penn State's Cal Emery came from a tank town ten miles away.

THE DETROIT Tigers have instituted a plan of giving five scholarships, one each to five different colleges in Michigan. If they gave all five to Michigan State, the Tigers would still owe Coach John Kobs about ten more, considering the boys the Tigers have taken from him previous to graduation. Our sincere congratulations to the Tigers for a progressive effort, regardless of how this plan works. This is good will in abundance.

THE BALTIMORE Club is reported to have given an ex-high school kid a bonus of $100,000 plus. This amount would subsidize about ten excellent farm teams or 100 full time college baseball scholarships.

A FABLE (Item from The Detroit Free Press), New York (AP) July 4, 1960—Tim Wilson, a former Bath, Michigan, High School pitcher, has been signed by the Baltimore Orioles for \$50,000 bonus. Scout George Gumsheo outbid 9 other major league clubs for the services of the 220 pound, 6'-6" left hander. Wilson had been attending University of Michigan for the past two years on a Detroit Tiger baseball scholarship. John J. McHale, Tiger farm director, was so elated that he took a dive in a dry pool at the Detroit Athletic Club. President Harvey R. Hansen did a  $\frac{1}{2}$  gainer layout with  $1\frac{1}{2}$  forward somersault tuck.

"WE CAN'T wait until a boy is twenty-two years of age to sign him to play professional baseball; he should have several years of schooling in the minor leagues." Professional basketball and professional football don't think a boy is ready until he is over twenty years old.

What is Professional Baseball going to do when they run out of minor leagues? Which reminds us of a man who has lost an argument. He always thinks he wins if he can end up by saying "so what?"

U. S. SUPREME COURT rulings have held the anti-trust laws do not apply to Professional Baseball, but they do affect pro-football. Out of 160,000,000 souls, this country is lucky to have nine men who can throw this kind of a pitch.

A PROFESSIONAL baseball scout occasionally can pick up a boy who can't miss. There are lots of college kids who appear to be able to run, hit, field and throw, but there is no way to determine if the prospect has heart and stomach.

The kid's coach might have an idea, and major leagues might save a little money if the coach were consulted.

the snows of Connecticut . . .

'Step In Right Direction'—AACBC Prexy

The Detroit Tigers plan to provide scholarships for collegiate baseball players is "a step in the right direction" and will cut some "under the table deals," declares L. C. (Cap) Timm, president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Harvey R. Hansen, president of the Detroit Baseball Company, announced recently that an initial sum of $5,000 has been set aside to provide the scholarships for five Michigan schools.

TIMM, in an interview with the Collegiate Baseball Digest, said: "I believe this is a step in the right direction. It may bring college and professional baseball interests closer together."

"There have always been some clubs which have had under the table deals in which players were sent through school. Perhaps the Detroit plan will bring an end to this."

"I believe the Detroit action indicates that at least some professional baseball people are realizing that by Campus raiding they are killing the goose that laid the golden egg."

"Perhaps they are beginning to recognize that they will have to support college baseball."

"I personally believe the plan could work if the money is administered legitimately through university scholarship channels."

"PROBABLY THIS will open up the eyes of other major league teams. Others may see their way clear to follow the Detroit club's initiative."

The scholarship program as announced by Detroit will benefit, if accepted by both pro baseball and the NCAA, five Michigan schools at the outset—University of Michigan, Michigan State, Western Michigan, University of Detroit and Wayne State.

As the scholarship program grows, it would be expanded to other schools. The program, which will grow to $8,600 annually in four years, will be administered by a non-profit corporation named the Detroit Baseball Company Education Foundation, Inc., with Hansen, John E. Fetzer, Detroit board chairman, and Harry M. Sisson, executive vice-president, as trustees.

The plan is to provide funds to aid a maximum of 20 men in the fourth year of operation.

"This is a no-strings attached program to aid boys interested in playing baseball and furthering their education. Our scholarship fund was developed to enhance the status of baseball as a major

Son Of Bucky Walters Hurls For Pa. Club

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Robert Thomas Hulton, former York JC coach, opens his first season as Gettysburg head baseball coach.

Hulton succeeds Henry T. Bream who will devote full-time to his duties as Gettysburg's athletic director.

BREAM COACHED Gettysburg baseball for 7 years, taking over when Ira Plank, brother of the famous Eddie Plank of the Philadelphia Athletics, died.

Hulton, a graduate of Grove City College, began his coaching career at York, Pa. Junior College in 1946.

In his first season at Gettysburg he will have a 20-game baseball schedule.

Gettysburg lost via graduation last June, regulars Jack Bream, first base; Vince Scola, second base; Art Hendley, shortstop; Joe Robinski, catcher; starting pitcher John Schleicher. But a strong nucleus returning lettermen plus promising sophomores from last year's freshmen team and experience mound corps makes 1958 outlook bright.

Arlo Olsen takes over at first base. Walt Palmer who saw action at 2nd base last year is expected to move into the shortstop slot with Jeff Kahler, up from last year's frosh team expected to share this role. Ritter Smith and Ron Venturini who saw service at second base last year will compete for starting role at this position.

Larry Liedel will again hold down the third base position. Bruce Wandling, second string catcher last year may get the starting spot this year. However, Leroy Bream, who was Gettysburg's most versatile player and who appeared in utility role as left-fielder, catcher and pitcher when mound reinforcement was needed, may push Wandling for starting role this year.

THE OUTFIELD is secure with returning lettermen. Frank Capitani will again be in centerfield where he has been outstanding for the past year. He is a .300 hitter, good base runner and fielder.

Harry Binger, Bob Rohrbaugh and Ronnie Brandt complete the outfield, all three are experienced and saw lots of action the past two seasons.

The mound corps will have three experienced lettermen. Right-hander Bill Walter, son of Bucky Walters, former major league pitcher and Giants' coach will again be a starter along with Owen Roizman and Dick Hawkins, both left-handers. Up from last year's frosh team is a promising sophomore, Jack McCracken, who established himself as a hurler of considerable promise last year. He is a right-hander. Tom Knox, another sophomore who hurled for last year's freshman team will round out the pitching staff for 1958.

Babe Ruth League Sets European Diamond Program

TRENTON, N. J.—Lt Colonel Dominic J. George, Chief of Special Services for the United States Air Forces in Europe, has been named first European Director of Babe Ruth League Baseball, it was announced recently in Headquarters of the world's largest diamond program for 13-15 year-old boys.

Lt. Col. George's appointment followed command approval of the program by the Office of the Commander-in-Chief, USAFE.

DETAILS OF the 1958 Babe Ruth League activities in Europe were mapped Jan. 27-31 at the annual baseball clinic sponsored by the Air Force in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany. Lt. Col. George and other representatives of Air Force bases will set up leagues in the various military outposts in England, France and Germany.

The clinic will be marked by appearance of ex-Cleveland manager Kerby Farrell, National League umpire Jocko Conlan, and major leaguers Dick Donovan, Sherman Lollar, George Kell and "Rip" Collins of the 1934 World Champions, St. Louis Cardinals' "Gas House Gang."

WAYNE B. McCONNELL, Vice President of Babe Ruth League,

Committee Named To Study New Summer Baseball Rule

Members of a special NCAA committee will meet in Chicago Feb. 16-17 to implement the new official rule for the participation of collegians in summer baseball leagues.

Named to the special NCAA committee are Ralph O. Coleman, Oregon State College; John H. Kobs, Michigan State; George Shiebler, Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference assistant commissioner; Bernie A. Shively, University of Kentucky and J. A. Tomlinson, Arkansas State College. Shively has been named chairman.

THE COMMITTEE also will

Inc., recently met with Colonel Stevenson and others to finalize plans for Colonel George's appointment. McConnell is director of sports and special events for The Coca-Cola Company sponsors of Babe Ruth League, Inc.

It is estimated that 4,000 to 5,000 youngsters between the ages of 13 to 15 are on American bases in Europe and hundreds of thousands of native youngsters are expected to become interested in the BRL programs under the military auspices.

meet with representatives of summer baseball leagues to study the new rulings passed by the NCAA Council.

Investigation of summer baseball began last year after complaints had been aired as to the eligibility of players competing in the hotel and resort area leagues.

The following is a digest of the summer baseball rule proposed by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

1—A student-athlete may play summer baseball as an amateur on any team not under the jurisdiction of professional baseball, it being understood that he may not receive pay for participation. The student athlete may participate against professional athletics but he may not participate on a professional team.

2—Participants in organized summer leagues may only hold jobs which are legitimate in their nature and function.

3—The student-athlete must be gainfully employed for at least 32 hours per week on the job and compensation shall be commensurate with the going rate of that locale.

4—Due to recognized schedule difficulties, the student-athlete shall be allowed to play baseball whenever feasible providing this does not interfere with his opportunity to work at least 32 hours per week.

5—SUCH REGULATIONS do not apply to unorganized summer local competition. It is explained that the reason for exempting those organized leagues confined to a community is that the talent for such leagues comes from the immediate area where boys live at home and work full-time on a job in the community and play at night or on week-ends.

6—Teams will be permitted to provide transportation to out-of-town games and to provide meals and lodging if necessary.

7—Minimum transportation costs for the student-athlete may be paid by the baseball club from and to his home.

8—There can be no cash allowances or bonuses paid in the cases of intra-league or inter-league playoffs.

The Press Box:*The Digest's Formula: Telling College Story

By ABE CHANIN

THEY'VE ASKED us what formula will we use for the Collegiate Baseball Digest.

All newspapers and magazines, the experts tell us, must have a formula.

We're just country folk—or desert rats as they call 'em out west—and we always figured a formula was for the chemistry end of the campus.

And in reality we've never set on paper a formula for the Digest. But we might tell you what we had in mind. We began with the premise that college baseball has a great story to tell and nowhere to tell it.

We talked to many players, coaches and baseball fans. Their ideas—really your ideas—were about the same. Tell us the story about collegiate baseball, the kids who play it, the coaches who coach it, the scores, the tournaments and the records.

So if that is what makes a formula, I suppose we have a formula, too, just like the magazine boys in New York City.

We're hoping to tell the story of collegiate baseball teams throughout the country. If you miss a yarn on your favorite ball club, write us, or better still jar the coach and his college publicity man. Tell them to push material our way.

Formula or no formula we're interested in collegiate baseball from Slippery Rock to Walla Walla.

WRITING OF the untimely death of Jelly SoRelle of Baylor, Dave Campbell of the Waco Tribune-Herald tells the story of how the Texas 'small-town' boy was taken aback on a trip to Philadelphia.

"Jelly was always up and about before everyone else. That morning he and a companion stepped around the corner from the hotel to a fancy little place and ordered coffee, toast and then a piece of pie. The bill came to something like $2.80. Jelly took one look and started getting his gear together for the trip home.

"I knew I didn't belong up there," he grumbled."

Campbell, who wrote that pre-season prospects, indicate that Baylor might have fielded one of its finest baseball teams for SoRelle this spring.

There was possible championship hopes at Baylor and the boys will be trying to make those hopes a reality this spring.

CARL BOLIN, who runs the Monarch Baseball Camp in Colorado, drops a note about baseball in his collegiate days.

"Back in 1929 when I played with the Kirksville, Missouri State College ball club we were allowed $1 per day for meals on trips.

"After we held out enough for a movie, it was plain to see that none of us was eating too high on the hog. During a four-game trip we had given Maryville, Mo. Teachers a couple of good sound beatings."

"But even though the scores were lop-sided, Don Faurot didn't like the idea of our big Indian sub-outfielder sitting down at times in the third base coaching box. Chief Hammond was a natural clown and his actions were excusable as long as we were winning. But the coach didn't see it that way and bawled him out.

"During an off day on the trip we layed over in Kansas City and saw an American Association game. Faurot pointed out to Chief Hammond that the Toledo third base coach wasn't sitting down in the box.

"You don't see that fellow sitting down", Faurot said.

"And the Chief fired back: 'Um, I'll bet that fellow gets more than dollar a day to eat on'!"

Tips From*The Coaching Box

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Otto Vogel, Iowa's veteran baseball coach, penned this infield 'tidbits' for this week's Coaching Box. Vogel begins his 30th year at Iowa. A graduate of Illinois in 1923 he won All-American in Baseball and also won letters in football and basketball. After graduation he joined the Chicago Cubs and played in the outfield and in the infield. A bad arm forced him out of major league ball in 1925. He joined the University of Iowa staff that year. Major leaguers produced by Vogel at Iowa included Mace Brown, Joe Mowry, Forrest Twogood, Francis Mulroney, Don Gugler, Jack Bruner and Jack Dittmer. Otto's Big Ten coaching record is 393-293-9 for a .572 percentage.)

1. Always keep in mind the score, inning, call on the batter, number of outs and strength and weakness of the opposition. This helps you to shift according to game situations.

2. Figure you will be involved in the next play. Be ready.
3. Never make a useless throw, and in case you make an error, figure out ahead of time what your next move will be. The throw, if any, generally goes to first.

4. It's easier to come up on a hop than to go down for a skipper. Consequently always play low.

5. When possible get squarely in front of a grounder, and when you can, charge all ground balls. Don't float.

6. Follow the ground ball into your glove. Reach ahead in a relaxed manner and as the ball gets into the glove, give.

7. Call loudly and repeatedly on a fly ball you can handle. If you can, move your arms at the same time. This helps alert any other fielder that you have the play.

8. Remember an outfielder coming in has a better chance at a fly you both can safely reach. He has the right of way unless you call first.

9. Charge at any baserunner who stops or hesitates between bases. Keep the leverage ahead of him. Either get him or drive him back to the base he left. There should never be more than two exchanges on a rundown.

10. On rundown, place yourself just off the line for a target and when you throw the ball often use a sidearm throw. This helps to eliminate the possibility of hitting the runner.

11. Have signs with the catcher and pitcher for pickoffs. Have a complete understanding.

12. In a close game generally try to keep the tying run from getting on base. When runs ahead, turn toward playing the hitter, sacrifice a run if necessary.

13. With two outs, always get the easiest and if possible the nearest play for the third out.

14. Learn to throw from the position in which you field the ball, and in the start of a double play normally don't raise up.

15. When you are not directly involved in a play, watch the baserunners. See they touch the bases.

16. On tag ups, first baseman and third baseman get in foul territory so as to face both runner and play. It is then easy to observe whether runner holds 'til ball is touched.

THE GLOVE

THE Wilson A2000

You've got to try the A2000 to find out how good a glove man you are! By personal preference, players throughout organized baseball have made the Wilson A2000 Pro Model Glove the hottest equipment item in the game. There never has been a glove like it!

Here's how it works. Padding is reduced in this new horseshoe design and in two pieces. This means the glove hinges readily, snaps shut on the ball automatically. An exclusive pattern design allows a deeper, sewed-in pocket. Both the thumb and little finger are stiffened and laced for complete control all the way to the finger tips—you get up to three full inches of extra reach! And perhaps most important of all, rebound is almost completely eliminated. When you get this Wilson Glove on the ball—it's caught!

P. S. There's a Wilson Glove for you in every price range—all patterned after exclusive Wilson A2000 features.

Delaware Mudhens Facing Tougher Schedule In '58

NEWARK, Del.—University of Delaware's Coach Harold Raymond, faced with a tougher schedule, will be moulding his 1958 team around seven returning regulars.

Coach Raymond, entering his fourth year at Delaware, announced a 24-game schedule for 1958. The Blue Hens will open against Randolph-Macon when Delaware takes to the road on its customary southern trip through the Carolinas and Virginia.

SEVEN MAJOR opponents have been added to this year's schedule, including Wake Forest, Atlantic Christian College, Bowdoin, Princeton, Upsala, Brandeis and Navy.

Back to spearhead the Delaware attack at first base for the third straight year is Captain Gene Watson. A power in the Hens' batting order, the 5-9, 180-pounder from Middletown, Del., has displayed outstanding defensive ability in addition to hitting prowess. He figured in 27 double-plays in the past season.

As a junior Watson hit .337, hitting safely 28 times in 20 games. His 11 extra base hits included 1 home run, 4 triples and 6 doubles, and he led the team in runs scored with 22. In runs-batted-in he tied for the team lead with 19, and he was second in stolen bases with 5.

HOWEVER not all is peaches and cream. According to Coach Raymond, the success of the team will depend on still untried pitching.

Only Tony DeLucas returns from last year's pitching staff that compiled a 14-6 record. DeLucas accounted for seven of the wins and three losses.

sport in colleges and universities," Hansen said.

He added, "We recognize the fact that there is an increasing number of college players going into organized baseball, and we want to encourage this trend."

HERE ARE the major points in the Hansen scholarship plan:

1. A scholarship will be provided each year to each participating school for aid to qualified students.

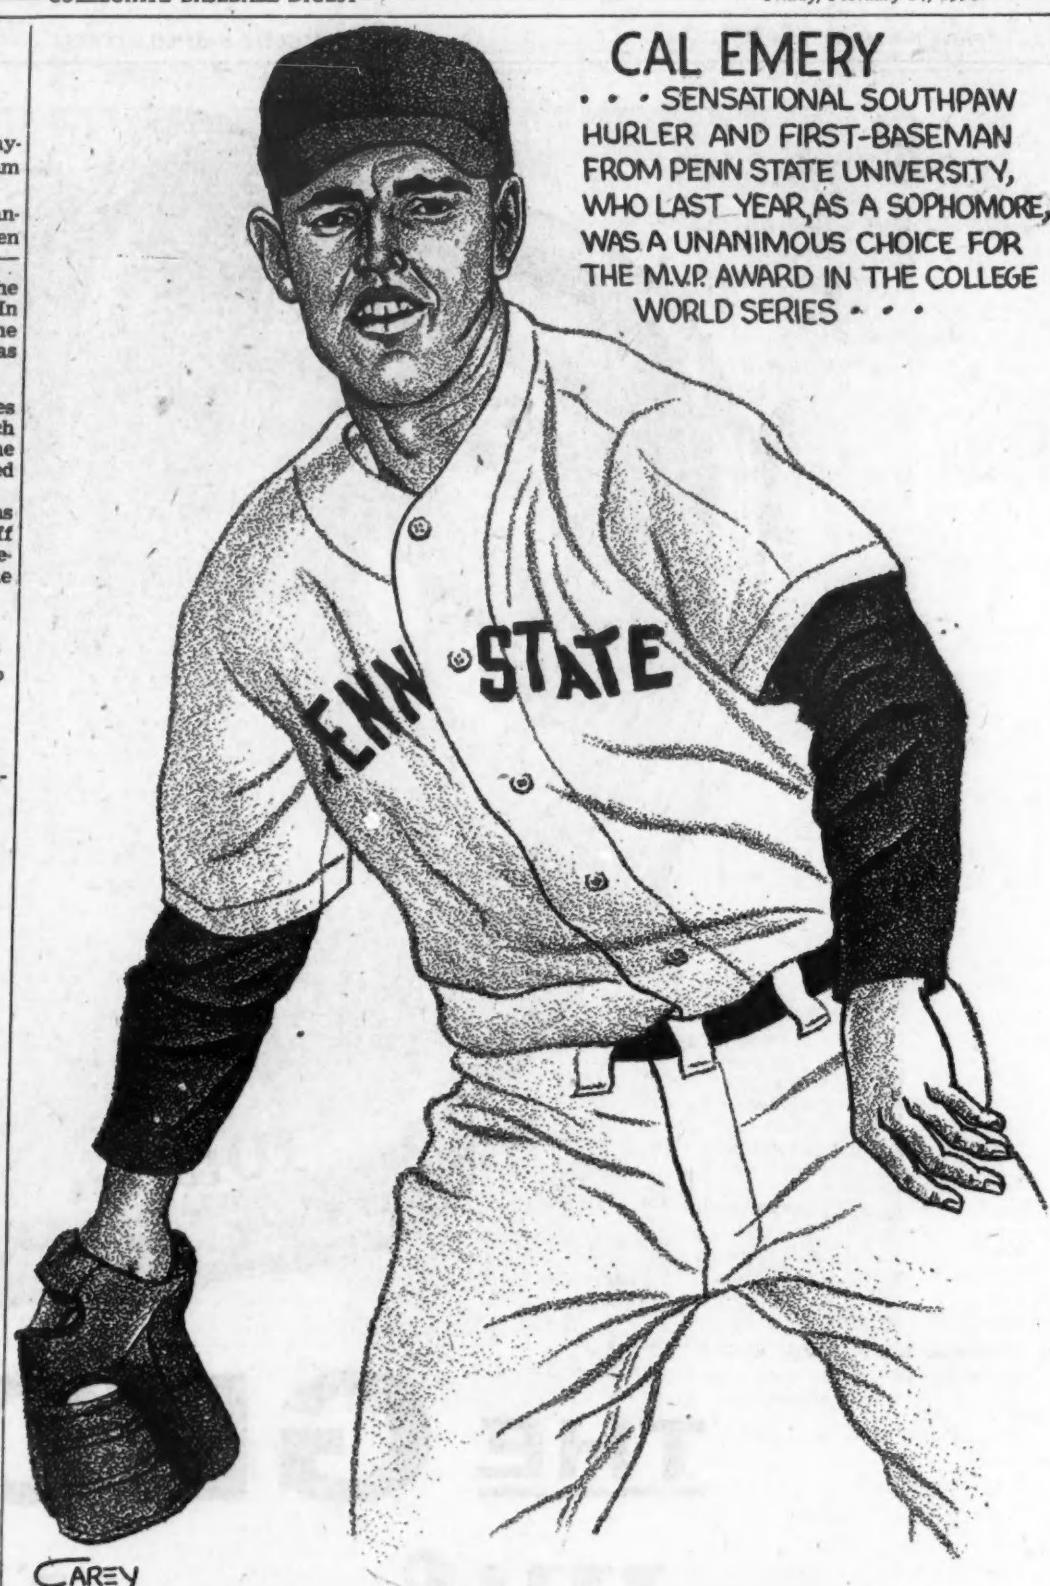

2. A policy committee will be formed with the financial aid directors of participating schools plus members of the Foundation in the group.

3. An applicant to be considered must have secured admission to the school and have supporting recommendations from his high school principal, baseball coach and a Foundation representative.

4. Students already enrolled in college must be making satisfactory progress toward their degree, be in good standing with the Office of the Dean of Men; be recommended by their baseball coach and a Foundation representative.

5. Scholarship awards will be of $200 minimum and $500 maximum based on individual student needs as defined by the school's aid program, rules of the N.C.A.A., rules of the conference in which the school participates, and the program provided for baseball.

6. Continuation of the scholarship program will at all times be subject to the approval of the Foundation. Neither will the Detroit Baseball Company be committed to further the career in baseball of a recipient nor will the recipient be obligated in any

Cap Timm Attends Fitness Meetings

MINNEAPOLIS—L. C. (Cap) Timm, president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches, attended a meeting of the Wheaties Sports Federation here.

Representatives of most collegiate sports attended the sessions.

way to the Detroit Baseball Company.

"WE ARE SINCERE in our belief that this scholarship plan will encourage boys both to play baseball and further their education with their future beyond a playing career in baseball in mind," Hansen added.

He said, "This scholarship plan compares with similar scholarships for boys in music, engineering and other vocations."

Hansen said that the plan had been sent to Commissioner Ford Frick.

"Since the bonus rule was eliminated, there is nothing in this scholarship plan that violates baseball rules and we expect him to approve," he concluded.

Cal Emery—Collegiate Baseball Prize Package

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—A big, sprawling left-hander, who won 10 of 11 starts in his first season at Penn State, is college baseball's prize package.

Cal Emery, 19-year-old sophomore, won his spurs at the 1957 College World Series even though defeated, 1-0, by the title-winning University of California team, in the finale.

Emery, who at 6-2, 210 pounds is a veritable giant, gave up only three hits in his losing effort and so impressed press row that he was a unanimous choice for the Most Valuable Player award.

The game was being played in Brooklyn's Ebbets Field where many a sensational baseball fete has been pulled off. And Emery followed tradition. In the ninth inning with two out, Emery smashed a two-run homer. Penn State won, 2-1, and the next day Emery shutout St. John's of Brooklyn to send the Lions into the national championships at Omaha.

"He's a comer," his coach, Joe Bedenk, says. "He still has much to learn, but he has all the physical assets."

"Whether he belongs on the pitching mound, or elsewhere, is something I don't have to decide right now."

"Chances are he'd do well anywhere."

MT. PLEASANT — Central Michigan College has won the ILAC All-Sports trophy more than any other Conference college. The Chips have won it two in a row and three times since the award was started in 1952. Eastern Michigan has won it twice.

Lehigh Boasts Soph Standout

BETHLEHEM, Pa.—Tony Packer, a great pitcher in his own collegiate days, will be eyeing the strong right arm of another pitcher when the 1958 season rolls around for the Lehigh Engineers.

Packer, beginning his sixth year as Lehigh's varsity baseball coach, compiled a phenomenal 30-1 record in four years of pitching for St. Lawrence University.

THIS SPRING Packer will closely watch the development of sophomore Craig Anderson. The ace of last year's fresh staff, the burly Anderson is reputed to be one of the most promising hurlers at Lehigh in the past 10 years.

If he comes through Lehigh will have a strong mound staff led by Doug Koch, 3-2 last year, and George Rebhan (1-3). Lehigh's top hitter of last season, Outfielder Fred Homsher, returns this season. Homsher batted .294 and hit 3 home runs in 15 games.

Other starting team returnees are Walt Christie, 1b; Outfielder Walt Smith and Catcher Dick Hoogstraten, outfielders.

PACKER, from Miners Mills, Pa., coached freshman athletics at St. Lawrence following his 1938 graduation and then coached high school teams before moving to Lehigh in 1946.

His oldest son, Billy, is a standout basketball and baseball performer at Bethlehem High School where he is a senior.

Stratton Opens First Year As Catawba Mentor

SALISBURY, N. C.—Despite the loss of four pitchers, Catawba College will send an experienced team into the 1958 North State Conference baseball race.

Harvey Stratton, Catawba baseball and football captain in 1954, opens his first season as head baseball coach of the North Carolina school.

STRATTON WILL be able to call on 14 returning lettermen when drills open and the Catawba Indians will be rated a strong threat in the North State race. They finished in a tie for second in the league last year.

J. T. Davis tops a good crew of outfielders and First Baseman Gene Fleming is rated an outstanding pro prospect.

Stratton will find his biggest chore in strengthening his pitching staff following the loss of four hurlers by graduation. Stratton is figuring on George Schneider, a junior who won All-State honors last season, to form the center of a young, but capable pitching staff.

COLLEGIATE BASEBALL DIGEST

PETE BUTLER . . . King of Rocky Mountain baseball.

Pete Butler - - Baseball King of the Rockies

GREELEY, Colo.—Dr. L. C. (Pete) Butler, coach of the Colorado State College Bears at Greeley, reigns as unchallenged king of college baseball coaches in the Rocky Mountain Empire.

The Bears have won the Rocky Mountain Conference championship 16 times and never have finished out of first place in the conference race. Fourteen of those sixteen championships were won under Butler's tutelage.

IN ADDITION, the Bears have missed only one year playing in the district No. 7 NCAA championships since the play-offs were begun. In 1957 the Bears made their eighth appearance in the championships.

The 1957 play-off with Denver University, champions of the Skyline conference, went to three games, all played at Greeley. John Hogg pitched the Bears to a 5-3 victory in 13 innings in the third game of the series. He had won the first game of the series by hurling an 8-3 victory. Denver won the second game, 4-3.

At Omaha in the 1957 NCAA championship tournament, the Bears lost a close game to the University of California, 4 to 0 and were eliminated by Notre Dame, 23 to 2. John Hogg, named the most valuable Player in District No. 7, allowed 11 hits, but the Californians had to bunch their hits in the third and eighth innnings.

Before going to Omaha, the Bears had a 24-6 season and a 10-1 Rocky Mountain Conference record. Their final 1957 record was 24-8.

ONLY OTHER team to be in the NCAA finals as many times as Colorado State's six appearances is the University of Texas. The Bears reached the finals in 1948, 1949, 1952, 1953, 1955 and 1957.

One of the greatest all-around

'Bama Found Japanese Sharp On Defense

Plane Mishap Over Pacific, Siege Of Asian Flu Marred Far East Trip

By JIMMY NELSON

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—It was a hectic trip, but the University of Alabama's baseballers were first-line, good-will ambassadors for Uncle Sam last summer.

Alabama, perennially one of the nation's tougher collegiate baseball teams, barnstormed through the Far East for six weeks and it was a junket the southerners won't forget.

The Crimson Tide braved a severe Asian flu siege which, at times, had 21 of 24 members sick, makeshift travel methods and a near-catastrophic airplane mishap over the Pacific Ocean to win 15 of 20 games against U. S. military bases and Japanese universities.

Athletic Publicity Director Finus Gaston reported the squad travelled over 21,912 miles from the takeoff at Tuscaloosa, Ala. (home of the University) on June 25 and arrival back home on Aug. 6. Twenty-eight contests had been scheduled in Japan, Korea, Okinawa and Honolulu, but rain cancelled eight games.

Bama's travelling party included Coach Tilden (Happy) Campbell, the school's baseball mentor for 19 seasons; H. G. Crisp, athletic director; Gaston and Jim Cummings, official University photographers for the junket.

Players were: Pitchers Bobby Ledford, Dwight Leonard, Clyde Eurick, Pete Reaves, Frank Roland, Howard Tepper, Don Adams, Mike Tamucci and Gary Freeman; Infielders Herb Kosten, Fred Frickie, Chuck Bancroft, Tony Sansone; outfielders Dale Rice, Norm Koury and Bill Walker; and Catchers Ralph Blalock and Mack Jones. Dave Johnson was manager-trainer.

Frickie, the All-America first-baseman, Bancroft Roland, an All-American pitcher as a junior in 1956., and Kosten all signed pro contracts at the end of the season in which Bama won the Western Division crown in the Southeastern Conference and lost a best-of-three games playoff to Georgia Tech, Eastern champs. Frickie signed with Cleveland; Roland, Kansas City; Bancroft, Detroit, and Kosten, Cincinnati.

Alabama was the third team, and the first chosen from the southland, to be selected by the Far East Central Welfare League (Department of the Army) to make the tour. Southern California made the trip in 1955; Ohio State in 1956.

The Asian Flu struck the club in Korea and threatened to force Coach Campbell to postpone games in Okinawa and Honolulu but with a patched-up lineup the Tide made every game. Six members of the party were forced to remain in Okinawa when the group moved into Honolulu.

On the flight from Honolulu to San Francisco the Alabamans received a real scare. After seven hours in flight, the airplane developed engine trouble and dropped a 1000-feet before heading back to Honolulu and a safe landing. All members said the drop seemed more like "ten miles" than 1000 feet.

Against Japanese collegians Alabama won one and lost one. And overall had a 15-5 mark. The Tide bowed to Rikkyo University, SOUTHERNER IN JAPAN—Tilden (Happy) Campbell, coach of the University of Alabama baseball team is pictured here exchanging baseballs with a Japanese collegiate coach before a game on 'Bama's barnstorming Far East tour last summer.

1-0, as Roland lost a four-hitter and later blanked Kansai University, 4-0.

Athletic Director Crisp praised the Japanese teams, saying, "They are among the best fielding teams we've ever seen. All of them are fast and, if you don't watch out, they'll hit away at you hard, too."

Southpaw Ledford, expected to become the ace of Bama's mound corps in 1958, compiled a 5-0 record on the trip. Ledford had a 6-1 mark as a sophomore for Bama in 1957. Roland was 3-1 and batted .343 with three homers. Frickie tied Kosten for most hits, 18, and led in RBIs, 23, and total bases, 30.

The Alabama group was hailed by one Far East official as "the finest group of athletes and gentlemen ever to tour the Far East." Both Coach Campbell and Crisp said Alabama was very appreciative of the honor, that it was an "outstanding achievement for Alabama and the South."

Alabama's baseball teams have won nine SEC championships in 19 years under Coach Campbell. He played on Bama's first conference champion in 1934. Four Tide outfits have performed in the NCAA playoffs. His SEC record is 205 wins, 76 losses. Alabama has sent 37 players to the major leagues since 1892.
